Overview

A weather event in February of 2020 washed out a section of road at Chinaman's Bluff adjacent to the Dart River, about 1 kilometre back from the road end shelter on the Glenorchy – Paradise Road in the Mt. Aspiring National Park.

The Department of Conservations seeks a contractor to:

- Clear topsoil vegetation starting from a point on the existing road along a mapped alignment and joining back into road end carpark and shelter;
- Remove subbase material from the existing road and stockpiled to be re-used as a subbase on the new alignment. Topsoil vegetation removed from the new alignment to be re-used to encourage re-growth on the old alignment; and
- Culvert installation and pavement construction laid in accordance with the construction specification and to the acceptance of the Principal's consulting engineer.
