Overview

Porirua and Hutt City Councils (the Councils) receive over 90,000 tonnes per annum of organic waste at Spicer and Silverstream landfills in their districts.

Porirua and Hutt City Councils are commissioning a project to prepare information on food waste management in Hutt City and Porirua City. Project deliverables are an options paper and a detailed business case on food waste management. The project will enable Councils to have a clear assessment of the different options for collecting and processing organic materials from businesses and households at centralised facilities in both districts.

For both Councils, the business case is integral to plans for developing new facilities and services to meet requirements set out in our Waste Management and Minimisation Action Plans.

Programmes to establish and operate food waste collections and processing are complex and potentially expensive. Stakeholders and elected officials need to have sufficient information to enable them to understand the issues and implications of pursuing different options.
