Overview

Te Aka Whai Ora (the Māori Health Authority) seeks to identify Māori suppliers of a wide range of services, other than health and disability services, who can apply a kaupapa Māori approach to service delivery and in their dealings with whānau, hapū and iwi. We are particularly interested in identifying and encouraging supplier organisations that are owned and operated by Māori, with a view to encouraging the development of these organisations and strengthening the Māori economy in recognition of the multiple factors which influence Māori health outcomes.
