Overview

Invercargill Activity Centre (IAC) is a small school which caters for secondary school students who are at risk of disengaging from mainstream schooling. The school operates under the governance of James Hargest College in Invercargill. The centre is located at 78 Lowe Street in Invercargill. This project incorporates the demolition of the existing woodwork classroom, garage and storage shed and replacing these with a new classroom & adjoining storage area. In the main building there is also a refurbishment to the domestic style kitchen, new doors to the outside and a new proprietary style canopy. There is also some minor site fencing/gates around the new building.
